NASA ADS accounts

Why do I need a NASA ADS account?

- Create private libraries to organize articles and share them with others
- Connect search results to STScI/JHU resources (Article Linker, Proxy Server, Catalogs)
- Set up email alerts based on specific search criteria
- Set preferences to automatically search your favorite ways

How do I create an account?

Visit this page :

http://adsabs.harvard.edu.ltdaccess.stsci.edu/cgi-bin/nph-manage\_account?man\_cmd=new and follow the instructions

Connect to STScI online and print content

Proxy server

- Once you have logged in, click on “my Account” (upper right hand corner of the screen.)
- Click on “ADS User Preferences” and then “Set/Review Your User Preferences”
- Add this URL to the “Proxy Server” entry box : <http://adsabs.harvard.edu.ltdaccess.stsci.edu>
- Save the setting

Article linker

- Once you have logged in, click on “my Account” (upper right hand corner of the screen.)
- Click on “Library Links Settings”
- From the menu “Library Links Server” select “STScI”
- Apply the setting
- As you find articles you’re interested in, you will see that some records in your results list are designated with an “L”. Click on that “L” to use the article linker
- Alternatively, you may see an “Article Linker” icon in the ADS record
